FOREWORD

If you are intending to purchase any of the better class of peonies this year, do not fail to look at the following list and compare prices. In some instances they are below the prevailing wholesale prices and present a real opportunity to purchase true and guaranteed stock of the varieties listed at extremely reasonable prices.

The prices quoted are for two to three-eye commercial divisions. I do not quote on one-eye divisions. It must be understood, however, that there can be no uniform grade of peony roots and that divisions of the expensive novelties will be smaller than those of the standard varieties. In each instance, however, I expect to furnish satisfactory divisions considering the value and scarcity of the variety ordered.

Prices on the better class of peonies have been advancing steadily for the last few years. The Quarantine Act has stopped the indiscriminate importation of peonies so that it is now possible to secure them from foreign sources only in limited amounts and under special permit from the Federal Horticultural Bureau.

I have been collecting my peonies for the last eighteen years and I believe that the following list covers practically all the better novelties and the best of the standard peonies. Some of them it is practically impossible to secure elsewhere. Such varieties as "Mirabeau" (Lem.), "Laurence" (Lem.), have practically disappeared from the trade. Mr. Saunders, in the Peony Bulletin, states that one rarely sees a bloom of "Mignon" (Lem.) Last spring I had approximately one hundred plants of this variety in bloom.

There seems to be considerable confusion in such varieties as "Miss Salway" and "Kelway's Queen" and a large number of the high priced Japanese novelties. I guarantee the correctness of these and all of the other varieties sent out by me. Mistakes do sometimes occur in digging and labeling plants and if this should happen I agree to replace the plant or to return the money paid for them.

Orders will be filed in consecutive number and filled in rotation and as the number of the high priced novelties is limited, it is advisable to order early.

Shipments will commence September 1st and continue through the fall months.

The prices herein are extremely low, but, in addition thereto, I will give a special discount of 5% on orders of $50.00 or more and 10% on orders of $100.00 or more.

TERMS

In as much as this price list is being sent out so far in advance of the shipping season I will require a deposit of 10% on all orders with the balance in cash before September 1st, except^t to parties who satisfy me of their financial responsibility.

My own reference is the First National Bank of Wausau, or reports of my financial responsibility can be secured from any of the commercial agencies.

O. L. RINGLE.

LEMOINES PEONIES

Alice Harding—This variety was awarded a special prize at the Paris show, on June 8, 1922, for the best French seedling peony. It is described by Lemoine as being very tall, vigorous stems, very large flowers of the most perfect rose shape, broad petals of good substance and cream white in color. The cost of this plant delivered in United States with duty, and transportation charges is approximately $115.00. Just a few
